“ Nigel has developed skills and solid knowledge in identifying counterfeit documents and is always proactive in his approach in referring these to us and in the majority of cases he has already identified any potential issues with documents. The intelligence and information provided by Nigel has identified numerous immigration offenders and led to arrests across 3 regions. ”

Stuart Watts
Chief Immigration Officer,
East of England

McGinley Group are pleased to introduce our Right to Work Training Course which will assist your company in complying with the Home Office Guidelines in regards to verifying your employees eligibility to work in the United Kingdom and avoid potential civil penalties of up to £20,000 per illegal worker.

The course is facilitated by Nigel Wharton, our Risk, Audit & Compliance Manager who has been trained by the Home Office in document verification and has over 10 years of experience in this field.

The course will consist of practical exercises and theory based discussions to;

- Understand the minimum requirements to verify eligibility to work in line with the Comprehensive Guidance issued by the Home Office
- Identify common counterfeit & forged documentation presented as proof of eligibility to work

By the end of the course the participants will be able to complete the minimum required checks to provide an excuse against liability should an employee be found to be an illegal worker and identity common counterfeit or forged documentation currently in circulation.

For further information please contact Nigel Wharton.
